The absorbency kit in a wall-mounted cabinet for chemicals h1043_60 is a wall-mounted emergency response system developed to respond quickly and safely to decontamination issues in the workplace. Developed for safety managers (RSPP), technical offices, chemical laboratory managers, workshops, and heavy industrial departments, this device is aimed at professionals who require a fixed, easily accessible, and organized containment station. The product solves the main operational problem of circumscribing, isolating, and collecting accidental spills of chemicals, acids, bases, and aggressive liquids, preventing contamination of walking surfaces and preventing the flow of harmful agents into the drainage pipes. The compact wall-mounted housing is manufactured from polypropylene, nylon, PVC, and polycarbonate, optimizing floor space and ensuring the internal protection of pads, socks, and pillows for a minimum overall absorption of 58 liters, as detailed in the parameters and visual surveys of the file named image_d51177.png.
