The curved top tube has the formal power and massive Viking helmet. The collection expresses a certain balance and solid, which is further stabilized by the horizontal bar and firmly rooted to the ground by the basic annulus. However, you can read the crystallization of a movement in the work just completed, or the intention of an upcoming animation.

The trend in broken supports, thin but effective like the limbs of a flamingo, multiply the combinations between visual components, the apparent parallels and intersections that are produced depends on point of view. Stainless steel is the perfect material to interpret this dialectic of the lines, so full of material and density of veiled suggestions iconographic.
